DETAILED ACTION

1. The examiner notes that withdrawn Claims 30-37 being drawn to a nonelected group II, have been canceled. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 12/27/2007.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 20-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP05-070910A (JP'910).

JP'910 teaches (see abstract, etc) an aluminum alloy comprising (in wt%): 3-8% Zn, 0.5-3.0% Mg, 0.01-0.5% Cu, 0.05-0.30% Zr, balance aluminum, which overlaps the presently claimed alloying ranges of Zn, Mg, Cu, and Zr (cl. 20-29). JP'910 does not teach the mandatory presence of Mn, Cr, Fe, Si, or Ti, and therefore meets the maximums in claims 20, 25-29. JP'910 teaches said alloy has excellent strength properties (Table 3, translation). Though JP'910 does not mention the quench sensitivity of said alloy, because the alloy taught by JP'910 substantially overlaps the presently claimed alloy composition, then substantially the same degree of 'low quench sensitivity' is expected, as for the instant alloy composition.

The examiner asserts that where the claimed and prior art products are identical or substantially identical in structure or composition, or are produced by identical or substantially identical processes, a prima facie case of either anticipation or obviousness has been established.

In re Best, 562 F.2d 1252, 1255, 195 USPQ 430, 433 (CCPA 1977). "When the PTO shows a sound basis for believing that the products of the applicant and the prior art are the same, the applicant has the burden of showing that they are not." In re Spada, 911 F.2d 705, 709, 15 USPQ2d 1655, 1658 (Fed. Cir. 1990). Therefore, if the prior art teaches the identical chemical structure, the properties applicant discloses and/or claims are necessarily present. The prima facie case can be rebutted by evidence showing that the prior art products do not necessarily possess the characteristics of the claimed product. In re Best, 562 F.2d at 1255, 195 USPQ at 433. See also Titanium Metals Corp. v. Banner, 778 F.2d 775, 227 USPQ 773 (Fed. Cir. 1985), see MPEP 2112.01.

Because JP'910 teaches an aluminum alloy composition that substantially overlaps the presently claimed alloying ranges of Zn, Mg, Cu, Zr, Mn, Cr, Fe, Si, and Ti, it is held that JP'910 has created a prima facie case of obviousness of the presently claimed invention.

Overlapping ranges have been held to be a prima facie case of obviousness, see MPEP § 2144.05. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to select any portion of the range, including the claimed range, from the broader range disclosed in the prior art, because the prior art finds that said composition in the entire disclosed range has a suitable utility. Additionally, "The normal desire of scientists or artisans to improve upon what is already generally known provides the motivation to determine where in a disclosed set of percentage ranges is the optimum combination of percentages," In re Peterson, 65 USPQ2d at 1379 (CAFC 2003).
